b. If your programme will be led by a partnership, please indicate what kind of partnership:

- Between governmental and non-governmental organizations

There will be an opportunity to include the names, contact information, and roles of all partners later in section III of the application form.

¹ Multilateral organizations (UN organizations, international financial institutions, etc), individual public authorities or private citizens, and private sector entities are not eligible for funding. Multilateral and private sector entities however can be partners in the programme. International organizations, regional organizations, and regional inter-governmental agencies are eligible to apply, but they must make the case that their project is aligned with National Development Priorities in a specific country.

² NGOs and/or civil society organizations leading the programme must be legally registered in the country of the proposed programme.

II. PROGRAMME DESCRIPTION, RATIONALE AND ANALYSIS

a. Implementation Programme Description (1/2 page maximum)

Describe the law(s), policy(ies) or plan(s): Which agreed-upon local, national, and/or regional law(s), policy(ies), and/or action plan(s)* that advance gender equality would be implemented more effectively with the support of the Fund for Gender Equality? Briefly describe how the programme that you are proposing will make a difference in the implementation.

NOTE: In Section V “Required Attachments,” you must attach the actual law(s), policy(ies) or plan(s) (with spending measures and budgets if these are available) that your programme is focused on implementing. These can be specific to gender equality – e.g., a gender equality action plan, a law on women’s property rights, a follow-up action plan to CEDAW Concluding Observations, etc., or a commitment that has been mainstreamed into a broader legal or national process, such as gender equality commitments in national development strategies, poverty reduction strategies, electoral or land reforms, etc.*

b. Background (1/2 page maximum)

⁴ This is the only question in the application form that requires an answer in English.

Briefly describe the process that led to the agreement of the gender equality provisions in the law(s), policy(ies) or plan(s) that you are targeting. Who were the initiators? Who were the allies and who was in opposition? What were the arguments for and against the law/policy/plan? What were the pivotal strategies that resulted in the agreement?

c. Progress and Gaps (1/2 page maximum)

What progress, if any, has been made in implementing the agreement? What have been the gaps to implementation? What are the reasons for these gaps? Please be as specific as possible, include data and statistics wherever possible. For instance, if a special temporary measure guaranteeing women 30 percent of seats at the local level is the focus and, despite the agreement, women only occupied 12 percent of seats, provide as much data and background as possible.

d. Implementation Programme Rationale (1 page maximum)

Please describe how your efforts to fast track implementation of the local or national law/policy/plan would be innovative and/or complementary to other existing efforts. Include a description of who, from your point of view, are the main actors that need to be involved in the implementation in order to ensure that the benefits for gender equality and women's empowerment result. How will the programme described in this proposal advance implementation of all or key aspects of the law(s), policy(ies), or programme(s)?

e. Programme Areas⁵ (please check one box below):

Women's political empowerment enhances women's participation and increases women's voice, leadership and influence over decision-making in all spheres of life. It advances women's civil and political rights, which create a fair distribution of power and translate gender equality policies into concrete systems for implementation. It also transforms institutions and promotes access to gender justice.

Women's economic empowerment strengthens women's voice, leadership and influence over economic policies and programmes to ensure the promotion and protection of equal opportunities and rights in both the public and private spheres. It enhances women's abilities to articulate their priorities, organize, and generate collective action to improve their livelihood options and supports asset-based community development to reduce the gender-differentiated impact of poverty. It ensures gender justice, from recognition of the value of unpaid care work to social protections for women, including those related to the current economic and financial crises and their linkages to climate change and food insecurity.

Our programme will include both areas
